

Elysian Meadows:
Cemetery for Dead House Plants

Paul Pescador

I pick up dead flowers, plants, and small trees from domestic and business locations and bury them in the Elysian Park. This service is free to anyone who lives within a twenty-mile driving radius of the park. This project is an on-going investigation into the act of social grieving and the Los Angeles municipal park system.

